Miramar's Success for Future for Heroes

Miramar Executive Search, a global executive search firm, are working with charitable organisation Work for Good to help Future for Heroes

LONDON, OCTOBER, 2017

Miramar Global Executive Search Consultants LLC, are supporting the charity Future for Heroes through the Work for Good organisation and would like to announce double success in the work they have been doing with the organisation.

Work for Good connect charities to businesses to help them with funding or services. Members, like Miramar Global, will choose one or more charities to support that fit with their own mission and values. Miramar have been working with Future for Heroes since 2015.

As a charitable organisation, Future for Heroes serves the Armed Forces and Veterans of all ranks returning to civilian life. Miramar Global are supporting them in their progression by providing pro-bono searches to assist them in developing their leadership teams and by offering funding for marketing support to the charity.

With quality experience in identifying and acquiring executive leaders for businesses worldwide, Miramar have been successful in managing candidates associated with Future for Heroes through interviews and selection processes. Recent successes include the appointment of not one, but two individuals, Sean Taylor and Christian Yates, as Trustees at the charity.

Graham Brown, CEO of Future for Heroes commented, "Future for Heroes is hugely grateful to Miramar Global Executive Search for all their support over the years for what we do. Most recently and to notable success was their finding of two excellent Trustees who have recently joined our Board. More routine is Miramar's continuing advice and support [for example] in marketing and social media. Many thanks to all at Miramar, long may our relationship continue and thrive."

Miramar Global and Future for Heroes will continue to partner and provide ongoing support to Armed Forces and Veterans who are returning to civilian life and work.
